Something About Wine.

The "Champagne Trials" in San Francisco have brought out the fact that the entire product of genuine champagne wine exceeds twelve trillion of bottles per annum, of which more than three trillions are sent to the United States.
The amount shipped to California is reported by the agent of the treasury department resident in France to be much greater than that sent to any other locality, considering the population of the State and the country's tributary to it; and it appears that the undervaluation of the article was so great in the year 1863 that in that year the Government was defrauded of more than half a million dollars of duty.
The vintage of France for this year is pronounced "magnificent." Old wine-growers say that 1865 will resemble 1850 in precocity, 1849 in quantity, 1846 in quality—an extraordinary combination of excellence.
This announcement gives the promise that the consumption of wine in this country will be materially reduced, as the French wines being relatively so much cheaper, and at the same time, free from adulteration, must supersede alcoholic liquors to a considerable extent—a consumption which even "rectifiers" may wish for. Already sherry and madeira wines are selling at surprisingly low prices compared with the current rates for common wine, as any one will discover on application to the dealers in wines and liquors.
The product of wine in Virginia in 1860 was 40,505 gallons, and in the United States 1,247, 242 gallons. The United States census report for 1860 says: After all our experience during the last several years, the United States is not yet in its infancy, and we have much to learn. The few millions of gallons which we produce annually are as nothing when compared to the 3,000,000 of all Europe. The vineyards of Europe are estimated at 12,000,000 of acres. We have far more grape territory than that in the United States, but our climate, with the exception of that of California, is less favorable. In California alone it is stated there are 5,000,000 of acres well adapted to the grape culture. Here is something to reflect upon, and give hope to the future.

INCREDIBLY VINIFIED.

There is living on Martha's Vineyard, Massachusetts, an old man who has never been off the island, and the extent of his knowledge is bounded by the confines of his home. He has been told of a war between the North and South, but he has never heard of the battle, nor has he seen any soldiers, he considered it a hoax. He is utterly unable to read, and is ignorant to the last degree. An excellent story is told of him and only day at school. He was quite a lad when a lady came to the district where his father resided to teach school. He was sent, and as the teacher was classifying the school he was called up in turn and interrogated as to his former studies. Of course he had to say that he had never been to school, and knew none of his letters. The schoolmaster gave him a rest on one side until he had finished the preliminary examination of the rest of the scholars. She then called him to her, and drew on the blackboard the letter A, told him what it was, and wished him to remember how it looked. He looked at it a moment, and then inquired (he stuttered):
"H—how do you know it A?"
The teacher replied that when she was a girl she had been to school to an old gentleman who told her so.
The boy eyed the A for a moment and then asked, "H—how did he know it?"
This was almost a stunner, but the teacher suddenly recollected that he had told her that when a boy he had been to school to a lady who taught him that it was A.
The boy eyed the letter a little longer, when he burst out with, "H—how did he know it but she told me!"
The teacher could not get over this obstacle, and the poor boy was sent home as incorrigible.

"Great Oaks From Little Acorns Grow."
The worst diseases known to the human race spring from causes so small as to almost defy detection.— The values of scientific lore that fill the tables and shelves of the medical fraternity only get to prove and elaborate these facts.
Then guard yourselves well you may. The smallest pimple on the skin is a tell-tale and indicator of disease.
It may fade and die away from the surface of the body, but it will reach the vitals, perhaps, at last, and death be the result and final close. Mergell's Bilious Dyspepsia, and Diarrhoea Pills cure where all others fail. While for Barnes, Scall's, Chamberlain's, and all other brands of Bills, Mergell's is infallible. Sold by J. Magell, 43 Fulton street, New York, and all Druggists, at 25 cents per box.
